		Education Qualifications (FHEQ)	periods, and forms: from ancient, medieval and Renaissance works through modern and contemporary art; and from the global perspectives developed with World Art Studies. The programme enables students to engage with artworks from Europe and America, Africa, Asia, and the Pacific. The programme entails both multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary approaches, offering detailed study of Art history, as well as archaeology, anthropology, cultural heritage, and museum studies. Students are encouraged to think and work independently, and to engage with debates at the forefront of humanities research. Students take a wide range of modules engaging with History of Art and World Art Studies, and are taught discipline specific skills and methodologies via a variety of formative exercises and summative written assessment. Employability is built into the curriculum at every level via core and/or discipline specific modules, and employability events are also held. An important and distinctive feature is the opportunity to live and study abroad for a year. Students gain first-hand experience of the cultures and cultural works they are studying, which not only enriches their academic studies but is also highly valued by employers.

S7 note S7		RELEVANT SUBJECT BENCHMARK STATEMENT(S) and details of how the Programme Specification aligns with these	The programme reflects the latest QAA subject benchmarking statement for History of Art, Architecture and Design. The BA in History of Art demonstrates the rich diversity of the subject, which is evident in the variety of cultures, periods and forms studied. The benchmarking statement emphasises the importance of studying both “what artists and designers did” and “why they did it”, and the programme’s focus upon “influence,

		inspiration and creativity” engages directly with the “historical, cultural and personal conditions which shape the production, use and valuing of artefacts”, and the “ways in which such artefacts have been subsequently interpreted and treated”. The QAA’s recognition of cultural and artistic artefacts “both as things which are made (i.e. as things that have a distinctive material form, dependent on materials and techniques that must be understood historically), and as things which have been designed (that is, that have been shaped by men and women living at particular historical moments who were interested in specific formal and functional issues)” is central to the programme’s approach. A key feature of our programme is study abroad, and the benchmark statement recognises the “desirability” of studying abroad, and the importance of this to employability. http://www.qaa.ac.uk/en/Publications/Documents/Subject-benchmark-statement-History-of-art-architecture-and-design.pdf

S12	COURSE HIGHLIGHTS (for publication in University Prospectus / Website /HEAR) Include succinct comments about employability, key skills and learning outcomes
note S12	Study of the history of art, including Western art and architecture from the most ancient art, classical antiquity, medieval, Renaissance, Baroque and modern periods through to contemporary art, and the art forms of Islamic, Indian, African, South American, and Pacific cultures. Throughout your studies you will have the opportunity to engage closely with works of art and architecture from different historical and geographical contexts through a wide variety of modules on offer. You will be able to tailor your degree by choosing modules that suit your interests. Through your studies you will learn to think in creative yet rigorous ways about art’s possible meanings. You will also be encouraged to consider art as a transcultural and transhistorical phenomenon which connects different periods and places. Complement your History of Art degree with a year studying at a university in the United States of America, Canada, Australia or New Zealand. Whilst abroad, you may benefit from any of the modules on offer to you at your host institution, which means this degree offers exceptional flexibility and breadth of art-historical training.

	We focus on four main research areas: the history of art and architecture in Europe and North America; the arts of Africa, Asia, Oceania and South America; the archaeology and anthropology of art; and museum studies and cultural heritage. The department has close links with the Sainsbury Centre for Visual Arts, the Sainsbury Research Unit for the Arts of Africa, Oceania and the Americas, and the Sainsbury Institute for the Study of Japanese Arts and Cultures.

PS3 PROGRAMME COHERENCE AND FEEDBACK CYCLES	note PS3

PS3.1 learning progression
How will progression in terms of skills, knowledge and understanding be reflected in the programme between modules in any one year and across the years as students progress through their course of study?	note PS3.1
Modules in History of Art progress from introductory approaches and survey modules in the first year, through increasing specialism in the second year and the year abroad, to advanced and independent research in the final year.
PS3.2 feedback cycle
Please explain how assessments and feedback / feed forward support the coherence of the programme. Comment on number and types of assessment, both formative and summative; the types and format of feedback students will receive; and their sequencing. How will assessments and feedback impact on subsequent modules?	note PS3.2

Every module contains formative and summative assessment, and tutor's feedforward and feedback—in seminars, in tutorials, and on written work—is integral to students' learning and progression through the course.

PS5	EQUALITY & WIDENING PARTICIPATION		note PS5
PS5.1	How do the admissions criteria specifically for this course ensure equality of opportunity for all applicants?
	Applications to the programme are assessed in accordance with University equal opportunities regulations.
PS5.2	What steps have been taken to ensure an inclusive curriculum?
	The curriculum has been designed to engage with issues of gender, race, class and sexuality, and fostering inclusivity on the level of the curriculum is central to the ethos of the programme.
PS5.3	In what ways do learning and teaching and assessment methods ensure inclusivity, reasonable adjustment and equality of opportunity?
	All learning, teaching and assessment is conducted in accordance with University equal opportunities regulations.

PS6	EMPLOYABILITY		note PS6
	How is employability embedded into the delivery of the course?
	Employability is embedded into the course in non-modular employability events, through employability-focused meetings with academic advisers, and is built into the design and delivery of modules at every level.
