The figures related to re-admission and intercalations contained in the table summarising concession requests since 2002/3 are represented in the graphs on the next four pages.

It is worth noting that the figures entered for an academic year do not necessarily relate to issues concerning that academic year but might refer to the academic year in which the concession request was received.

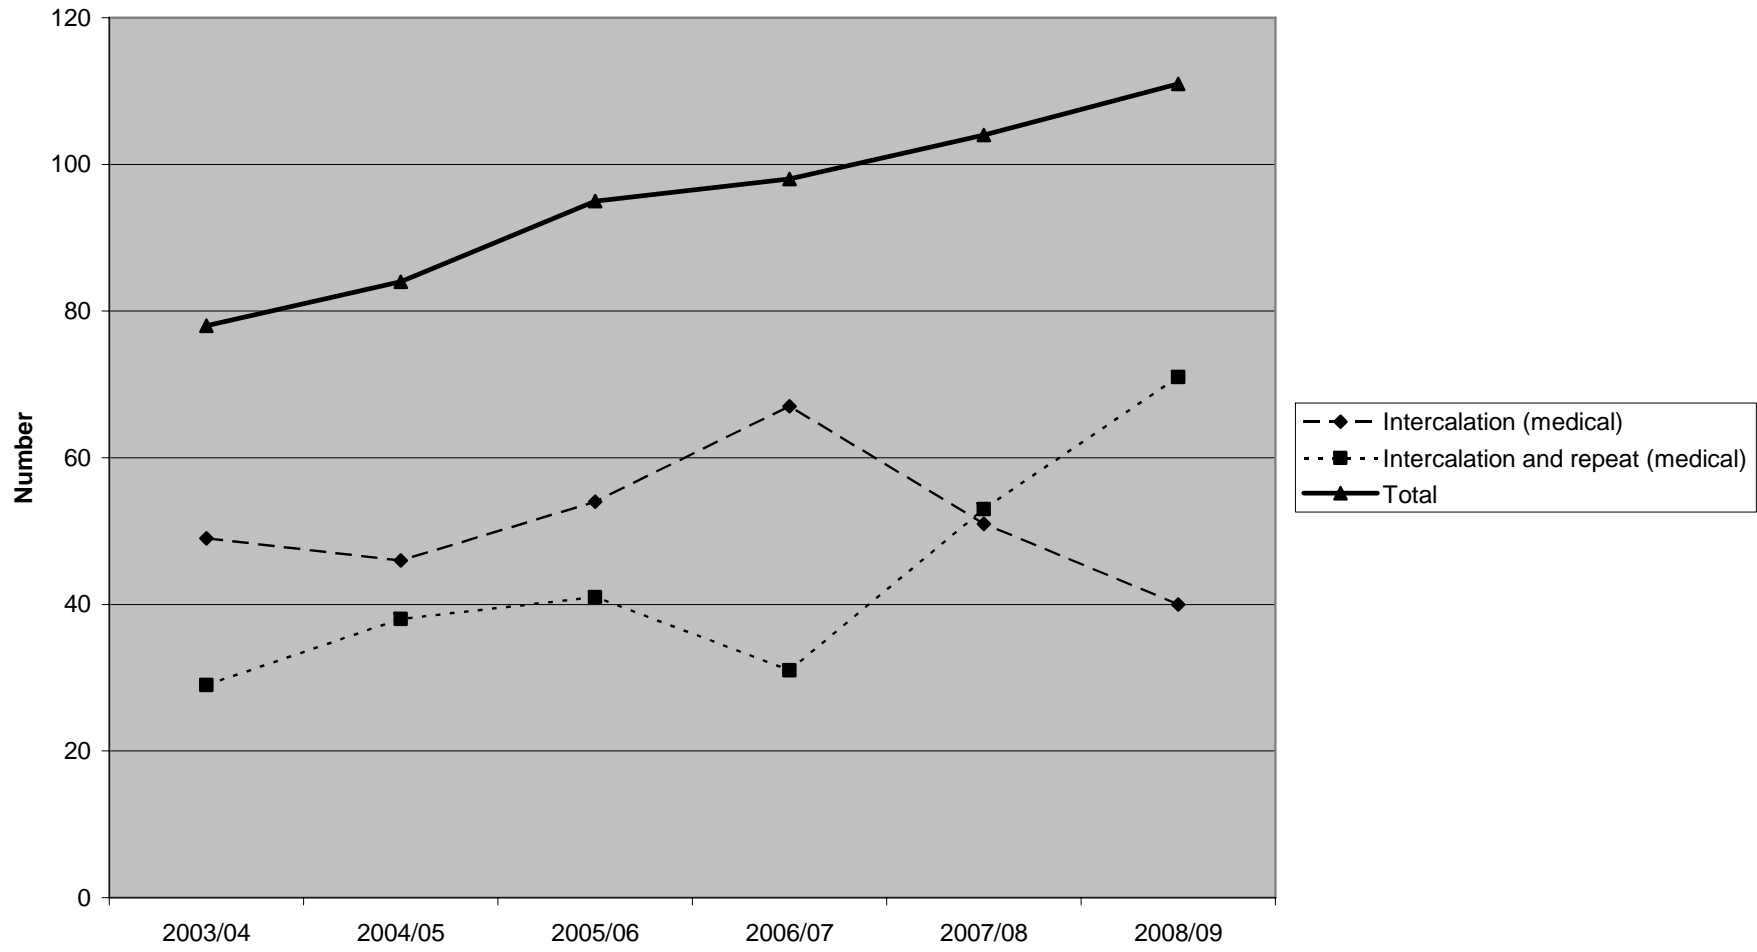

It is also worth noting that our overall student figures have continued to rise during the timescale so representing the figures by proportions of student population could reveal different pictures.

The emerging trends are of interest, despite the caveats in the data quality mentioned above. A view should be taken on whether numbers should be used to monitor trends or proportions of the student population.
