

Report on Module Monitoring, Course Update and Programme Reviews

1 Module Monitoring and Course Update

- 1.1 The methodology for the annual review and update of modules and courses, approved by Senate in March 2003 and implemented in September 2004, requires Schools to report annually to Faculty Learning, Teaching and Quality Committees confirming that the processes of module monitoring and course update have been completed and on any significant issues arising from the review of modules and courses, including student feedback. Faculty LTQCs are in turn required to report to the Learning and Teaching Committee of Senate before the end of the academic year following the year to which the module and course monitoring relate that Schools have completed the process and to raise any issues which require wider consideration or discussion.
- 1.2 An MCM3 report in respect of teaching delivered in 2008/9 has been received from the Faculties of Arts & Humanities, Sciences and Social Sciences.
(These are separately reported to the Committee in Section A of the agenda under the agendum: Associate Deans).

2 Programme Review 2010/1

- 2.1 The arrangements for the periodic review of courses require Faculty Learning, Teaching and Quality Committees to agree a schedule of reviews for the coming year (within the overall timetable) and to report this schedule to the Learning and Teaching Committee of Senate in May / June of each year.
- 2.2 A PR1 report setting out the schedule of Programme Reviews in 2010/1 from the Faculties of Arts & Humanities, Health, and Social Sciences were reported to the Committee in May. The report from the Faculty of Science is outstanding.
