What is Pure for?

Pure contains all of the information relating to your research and activities in one place. It then feeds this information to your UEA webpage. It also feeds details of research outputs to the UEA digital repository.

How do I navigate?

The 'Personal Overview' screen provides an overview of your publications, activities and impacts. It also shows your funding applications, your projects, and any CVs which you have created in Pure. All content is immediately and easily accessible.

The left hand menu allows you to look at any particular category in more detail (see the picture on the right).

You can check the details of your employment and supervision in the 'Profile' section. This is also where you can edit the information which appears on your UEA webpage.

What types of data are in Pure?

In addition to the information you enter, data is synchronised overnight from other UEA systems:

- Staff names, roles and affiliations (HR system)
- Staff employment details (HR system/SPOT)
- Postgraduate student supervision (SITS)
- Project applications and awards (ARCP)

Additionally, publications added to Pure will transfer automatically to the UEA Digital Repository.
